Essays must be of between 1,000 and 1,500 words in length. Competitors must choose one of these titles for their essay:

- Discuss whether you think that abortion is an acceptable option in an unplanned pregnancy
- Is abortion justified if the unborn baby has a disability?
- Is a human embryo a potential human life or a human life with potential?

Typewritten or word-processed entries are preferred for reasons of legibility. Essays, with their accompanying entry forms, should be posted to the:

Robin McNair Prize, SPUC Educational Research Trust, Unit C, 3 Whitacre Mews, Stannary Street, London SE11 4AB.

Essays need to reach this address by 31 January 2009 and they become the property of the Trust upon receipt. Entrants are advised to make copies of their entries. Other rules of the competition are in the leaflet that describes the competition.
